IMMORAL NEVADA.

A Pious Old Lady Expresses an Opinion.

McEwen perpetrates the following on Nevada:
I met in the Palace Hotel yesterday a clergyman from Worcester, Mass., who asked me many questions about the state of civilization to which the people of Nevada have attained. The cause of this curiosity was presently revealed. An old lady was escorted on board the west-bound overland train at Wells by a rough looking young man. He kissed her good bye and planted her and her bundles in a seat opposite the clergyman. She showed a disposition to confide in him at once.
"That there was my youngest that brought me in yer, Mister," she said, wiping her eyes with an already damp handkerchief. "They are all on the railroad. Jim—that's the one you saw with your own eyes—he's brakin' on a freight; Bob's my eldest and he's got a passenger injine; Tom's in the repair shops at Wadsworth, an' George he's a conductor on the V. & T. I can't sleep for thinking of the danger them there boys is in night and day on the kears, goin' all the time as they be."

"Yes," agreed the clergyman sympathetically, "it certainly is a dangerous occupation."

"But there is offsets," sobbed the old lady, trying to comfort herself. "Jim, the youngest come to me two months ago an' says he, 'Ma, I'm agoin' to work on the railroad. I'm tired o' farmin' here at Wells; I know it'll just break you an' Pa' all up, but then if I stayed to home I might get kicked by a muel.' An I let him go, seein' he was right. The lives of all of us, mister, is in the Lord's hands."

"True," observed the clergyman brightening, "He is indeed with us everywhere, and I am glad you trust in him, dear madam."

"But Nevada's an awful bad place to bring boys up in, mister. You aint got no idee. Look at that there land whirlin' by. Aint it drefful just to look at? They aint no God there, on'y sagebrush. And sassiety in Nevada's no better. What with the saloons an' the gamblin' an' gun-fightin' an' horse racin' an' politics it's bad fur boys, Nevada is."

"Yes, I have been told that it is a rather wild and immoral section of the Union," remarked the clergyman.

"Wild!" cried the old lady earnestly, leaning forward and laying her hand on the minister's knee. "Immoral! You've struck it mister. It's simply the —est country you ever see!"

And she buried her face in the damp handkerchief and sobbed harder than ever.

Nevada's Financial Condition.

A census bulletin showing the indebtedness of the various States in the Federal Union, has been issued and contains the following statistics in relation to that of Nevada.

The bonded dept of the State in 1880 was $436,400; on June 1, 1890, it was $592,000. In 1880 there was a total of $845,210.28 in cash and funds on hand; June 1, 1890 there was a balance of $1,141,940.38; in 1880 the excess of assets above liabilities was $408,810.28; on June 1, 1890, the assets over indebtedness footed up $879,940.38.

Yesterday the town was full of witnesses in the Storey County case.

There is a man in San Francisco who drew $7,500 in the Louisiana Lottery some time ago and placed most of it in the bank. It was no more than deposited when his wife waltzed around to the bank, yanked out $1,000 and commenced proceedings for a divorce.

Only One From Lyon.

The primaries for the election of delegates to the State Convention will be held in the several precincts in the county today. It will be the duty of the delegates selected to put a Republican ticket in the field on the 4th of next month. In doing this the members of the Convention should deliberate well before making selections for the important offices. There are a number of aspirants for each office and everybody cannot be satisfied. The delegates from Lyon should try and see that she receives some place on the ticket. Same time ago, J. R. Shaw, of this place, was a candidate for State Treasurer, but he has lately changed his mind about running for the position and is not now a candidate. The only other aspirant for a State office in this county, we believe, is W. C. Dovey, who would like to succeed himself to the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction. This being the case we think the delegates from Lyon should stand in for Dovey.—Lyon County Times

Storey and Ormsby Cases.

The Storey county cases against the State were filed in Judge Rising's court yesterday. The Chronicle received judgement for $224 for publishing the election proclamation of the special election and the various plaintiffs who did work on that day a. officers and clerks received judgment for the full amounts.

The Ormsby case was also tried and taken under advisement until today.

Bad Mail Service.

The Lyon County Times pronounces the mail service in that section as rotten. All along the line the same cry goes up. The worst service we know of is about Lake Tahoe. Last week the writer sent a letter to the Bellevue Hotel and the next day followed it. He reached the resort before the letter.

Such a service as this can be materially bettered and every body knows it.

A Bill to Explore Alaska.

WASHINGTON, August 18.—The bill providing for the establishment of a military post on the Yukon river in the interior of Alaska was discussed at a meeting of the Committee on Military Affairs today. It was agreed to report a substitute bill providing for the exploration of the interior of Alaska by the War Department and appropriate $100,000 for that purpose.
